

Quality Policy

Placewell Group brings inspiration, innovation, and intelligence to the commercial built environment – creating ecosystems within which communities can thrive. Our companies include Geyer, a strategic design consultancy, and Valmont, intelligent construction delivery.

Placewell Group has developed, implemented and maintained an Integrated Management System (IMS), with the commitment of continually reviewing and enhancing our IMS to ensure effective design and delivery of projects. To satisfy all applicable requirements, Placewell Group will provide the necessary resources to support this commitment.

Our Quality Policy strives to:

- Meet and exceed client and stakeholder needs and expectations to enhance client satisfaction.
- Provide strategic direction for our IMS by considering risks and opportunities, client and interested parties' requirements, and legislative and other requirements.
- Develop, implement, maintain and continually improve our IMS compliant with requirements of relevant national and international standards, applicable legislation, regulations, codes of practice and industry best practice
- Establish systems to monitor, review and evaluate our quality performance by setting and periodic review of strategic objectives and targets.
- Provide a continuous information and training programme to ensure employees and external service providers actively contribute to achieving our strategic objectives.
- Investigate and analyse non-conformities and defects to take preventive actions.
- Encourage employees and external service providers to participate actively and contribute to the continual improvement of our IMS.

This policy is communicated to personnel working for and on behalf of Placewell Group and is available to interested parties as required.
